Adani statement on administrative error

Please see below for our statement, which can be attributed to an Adani Mining spokesperson:

“After self-reporting to the Queensland Government that we made an administrative error in our 2017/18 Annual Return for the Carmichael mine, Adani will today plead guilty in the Brisbane Magistrate’s Court for providing the administering authority an erroneous document.

“Importantly, there was no environmental harm, all relevant works were legal, and fully complied with our project conditions.

“We have taken responsibility for the administrative error and improvements to internal processes were introduced at the time the administrative error was discovered in 2018 and reported by us to ensure paperwork errors of this nature are avoided in the future.

“We look forward to this matter being resolved.”
